May Meeting minutes accepted. Motioned by Michelle, 2nd by Ken.

Lifetime Achievement Award

Nomination Form. Michele has asked for feedback on the revisions. Long discussion on creating and making the form fillable online, as well as soliciting nominations online. In future years, we will consider expanding the awards categories to include awards for education, art, and advocacy.

Website

We are getting compliments on the new website design but we still need a content manager. Current Deborah is doing it. Liz will check out Xoho or some other software app for end-user content uploading and commissioner meeting collaborating.

Arts Alive

is scheduled for September 17, 2022

Poetry Event

Venues were discussed. Esther Short park and the new waterfront were mentioned as possibilities and the Vancouver Library has worked well in the past. Armin mentioned that poetry 'pop up' events go better in conjunction with other simultaneous art events. It would be great to add signage at these events to promote CCAC. Liz will talk to Battle Ground Artists Alliance to see if they are interested in having a Poetry Pop Up at their Art in the Park event in August. Other commissioners are invited to do the same in their respective cities.

New Logo

tabled for next meeting

In Kind Hours Reporting

It was suggested that we submit our records quarterly.

Liability Insurance

We are at a standstill with new demands made by Clark County we are unable to fill. In contrast to an earlier agreement, Clark County is now requiring CANN to hold 1 to 2 million in liability insurance, which is just not feasible for us as we still have no budget and not enough frequency of events to sustain the burden. Deborah and Steve will meet with the County.

New Business

Rena Priest has accepted invitation for a poetry event on January 8, 2023.

Kelly Neidig is our Ansteen Gallery curator. Next show will be for county employees

CCAC would like to involve Native Artist Lilian Pit or an Ilani marketing person to get involved with CCAC
